

NI QUEBEC NI CANADA

JOURNÉE ANTICANADA DAY

GRAB AS MANY QUEBEC AND CANADA FLAGS AS YOU CAN AND ENTER YOUR NAME IN THE HIGH SCORES!

ATTIÈRE AUTANT DE DRAPEAUX DU QUÉBEC ET DU CANADA QUE TU PEUX ET ENTRE TON NOM DANS LES MEILLEURS SCORES !

1ER JUILLET 2017 - JULY 1ST 2017

150 ANS DE YEARS OF

COLONIALISM

PAS DE QUOIFETER / NO REASON FOR A PARTY

Manifestation
anticoloniale et
anti-impériale
Anticolonial & anti-imperial protest

Heure et lieu seront annoncés
sur le site web.
Time and place
to be announced on the website.

www.clac-montreal.net info@clac-montreal.net

NI QUEBEC NI CANADA

JOURNÉE ANTICANADA DAY

150 ANS DE YEARS OF COLONIALISM

PAS DE QUOIFETER / NO REASON FOR A PARTY

Manifestation
anticoloniale et
anti-impériale
Anticolonial & anti-imperial protest

Heure et lieu
seront annoncés
sur le site web.
Time and place
to be announced on
the website.

www.clac-montreal.net info@clac-montreal.net

1ER JUILLET 2017 - JULY 1ST 2017

GRAB AS MANY QUEBEC AND CANADA FLAGS AS YOU CAN AND ENTER YOUR NAME IN THE HIGH SCORES!

ATTIÈRE AUTANT DE DRAPEAUX DU QUÉBEC ET DU CANADA QUE TU PEUX ET ENTRE TON NOM DANS LES MEILLEURS SCORES !

150 years of colonialism is nothing to celebrate!

As you might know, this year is the 150th anniversary of Canada. The government will spend half a billion dollars in 2017 to organize ceremonies, parades and parties to celebrate the colonialism, imperialism and racism that is so characteristic to nation-states. Those amounts will be invested in questionable projects that will benefit the tourism industry and the friends of those in power, rather than the residents of the area.

We should never forget that the territory we call Canada has been stolen by European settlers from the Indigenous peoples who have lived here for thousand of years. The land was taken in order to appropriate natural resources to make the English and French crown richer. Why should we celebrate that?

Canadian colonialism isn't something of the past, as the oppression and racism against Indigenous people still exists, whether we think about the disproportionate rate of incarceration compared to white people, to the police abuse they face, or the military interventions (Restigouche, 1981, Oka, 1990, Gustafsen Lake, 1995, Elsipogtog, 2013). These interventions were meant to « discipline » Indigenous communities while they claimed rights that the Canadian government agreed to in treaties. Even then, the treaties were signed after settlers invaded Indigenous territories and destabilized the ecosystem their communities depended on. Once again, is there anything to celebrate?

Even if the vast majority of the Canadian population comes from immigration, beginning with the 16th century period of colonization, the Canadian government maintains racist policies towards new migrants. They are marginalized, deprived of essential services they need to live in dignity, and are often treated like criminals or terrorists. Should we be proud of the welcome we offer to the people that often have to migrate here because life in their country of origin has become unbearable, often because of the imperialistic policies of our government or of other rich countries that can't get enough power and money?

This is why we'll disrupt Canada day on July 1st as much as possible. There is no pride in living in a country built on stolen land; a country accumulating riches all these years through the brutal exploitation of the resources here and everywhere else. There is no pride in living in a country that marginalizes Indigenous people and migrants.

Organized as a response to the call for a national day of action on July 1st 2017 made by IDLE NO MORE and DEFENDERS OF THE LAND: <http://bit.ly/2ph2Q4v>

150 years of colonialism is nothing to celebrate!

As you might know, this year is the 150th anniversary of Canada. The government will spend half a billion dollars in 2017 to organize ceremonies, parades and parties to celebrate the colonialism, imperialism and racism that is so characteristic to nation-states. Those amounts will be invested in questionable projects that will benefit the tourism industry and the friends of those in power, rather than the residents of the area.

We should never forget that the territory we call Canada has been stolen by European settlers from the Indigenous peoples who have lived here for thousand of years. The land was taken in order to appropriate natural resources to make the English and French crown richer. Why should we celebrate that?

Canadian colonialism isn't something of the past, as the oppression and racism against Indigenous people still exists, whether we think about the disproportionate rate of incarceration compared to white people, to the police abuse they face, or the military interventions (Restigouche, 1981, Oka, 1990, Gustafsen Lake, 1995, Elsipogtog, 2013). These interventions were meant to « discipline » Indigenous communities while they claimed rights that the Canadian government agreed to in treaties. Even then, the treaties were signed after settlers invaded Indigenous territories and destabilized the ecosystem their communities depended on. Once again, is there anything to celebrate?

Even if the vast majority of the Canadian population comes from immigration, beginning with the 16th century period of colonization, the Canadian government maintains racist policies towards new migrants. They are marginalized, deprived of essential services they need to live in dignity, and are often treated like criminals or terrorists. Should we be proud of the welcome we offer to the people that often have to migrate here because life in their country of origin has become unbearable, often because of the imperialistic policies of our government or of other rich countries that can't get enough power and money?

This is why we'll disrupt Canada day on July 1st as much as possible. There is no pride in living in a country built on stolen land; a country accumulating riches all these years through the brutal exploitation of the resources here and everywhere else. There is no pride in living in a country that marginalizes Indigenous people and migrants.

Organized as a response to the call for a national day of action on July 1st 2017 made by IDLE NO MORE and DEFENDERS OF THE LAND: <http://bit.ly/2ph2Q4v>